

OUR PURPOSE

We provide gender-responsive community support & services for people who have been, or are at risk of being, criminalized for mental health, poverty and/or addictions while advocating for broader social change to prevent or provide alternatives to incarceration.

We believe everyone deserves respect. We meet people where they are at, without judgment, and we see people for who they are, rather than the challenges they are faced with.

We treat people with care and empathy, and we honour the voices of lived experience.

ABOLITIONIST:

One who envisions a world without prisons where those who experience systemic inequities are no longer criminalized

WHO WE ARE

We are a feminist, abolitionist organization that believes in the liberation of women and gender-diverse people from oppressions of all kinds

We believe that systemic inequities driven by racism and colonialism, and their consequences, including poverty, violence, trauma, mental illness, and substance use lead to criminalization
